- 2) ☐ Notice of Draftperson's Patent Drawing Review (PTO-948) 5) ☐ Notice of Informal Patent Application (PTO-152)
- 3) ☐ Information Disclosure Statement(s) (PTO-1449) Paper No(s) _____ 6) ☐ Other:

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-3, 6-8, 11-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yoshimura et al (US 5,444,537).

See column 4, line 56 through column 5, line 37. The determination of the position of the point "p" is made by determining the intensity of the detected light at that point, and the distance determination is made relative to a reference point "q" independently of data from other points and independently of the time of flight of the light. There are embodiments disclosed in the reference in which the spatial and/or optical relationship between the image sensor and the surface is altered, (see figure 15 in which the vibrating means 129 alters the spatial relationship between the detector and the surface) and the position determined from a variation of the observed signal from the point as the signal is moved. The use of any known type of sensor capable of receiving the intensities at the point of interest would have been obvious.

3. The art does not appear to teach or suggest comparing a plurality of captures of the intensity under different conditions or at different points in time in order to compensate for non-homogeneous environment or surface; thus claims 4,5, 9, and 10 contain allowable subject matter and would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of their respective parent claims.

4. The remarks filed 30 September 2003 have been considered but have not been found to be persuasive relative to claims 1-3, 6-8, and 11-14.. The device of the reference determine the distance by determining and processing a spectral or similar distribution of the light at a single pixel. See instant claim 11 which claims "capturing a spectral energy distribution reflected from a location in a single pixel . . . and converting the spectral energy into a measurement of distance to the location relative to a reference point . . ."; the use of a reference plane by the Yoshimura et al reference no more implies comparison between pixels than does the reference point of instant claim 11 (or instant claims 1, 11, 12, 13, or 14). The distance in the reference is determined by the measured light at each individual pixel; the two detected intensities are both intensities extracted from light from a single point on the surface directed to a single pixel; there is no comparison between pixels.

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
